In her book which is a World War II Memoir of Resilience and Survival in the Netherlands, this 96-year-old survivor will speak to us about the frightening times she faced as a 12–17-year-old child. What is amazing about this speaker is that although she is here to talk about and hopefully sell her book, she is not making anything from her book sales. She is donating everything that she earns to the International Red Cross. I hope we can help her add to her donation. If you come and would like to buy her book, please have your cell phone and credit card with you in order for your payment to go directly to the publisher.

Admission is free. No registration is required.
